I haven't used BING very much but I've been pleased with it . It seems quicker and more direct than some things on Google.

I've used Bing for a few searches (my default search is and will be Google). But I don't have any qualm's with Bing. I, though, think they need to include that feature Ask had with the binoculars (sp.) to preview a web page to see if it is the right. I think every search should have that. I've used it and liked it. Yes, you'll get a cached view that may not be very current but it's better than nothing.
